

RESIGNATION OF RSL LIFECARE CEO – RON THOMPSON

RSL LifeCare announces the resignation of its long serving CEO, Mr Ron Thompson. The Board wishes to acknowledge the considerable contributions Mr Thompson has made to the Company.

When he became the CEO, RSL LifeCare was a small organisation having difficulties in providing an acceptable standard of care. Today, 16 years later, the organisation serves 7,500 residents and clients, employs over 3000 staff and operates from 50 locations throughout NSW and the ACT. During this period, RSL LifeCare was regularly recognized for excellence in its care and services with various industry awards, and has had an excellent record in aged care compliance.

On behalf of RSL LifeCare, the Board of RSL LifeCare wishes Mr Thompson and his family all the best in their future endeavours.

Post the initial stages of the ACNC Investigation and the Inquiry under the Charitable Fundraising Act 1991 (NSW), the Board has strengthened its focus on governance practices and systems. The organisation will continue to provide exceptional quality of care for older Australians and will have a greater emphasis on the needs of Veterans. We are entering an exciting period of revitalising the organisation, building on its strong foundations and benefiting from the learnings of the inquiries and investigations. The Board will commence processes to recruit a new CEO.
